

COUNTY BOARD F ELECTIONS PENS OFFICE

Official Step in Political Activities Here Taken
Today

PARTIES PLAN MEETS
Official Preference Primary Scheduled To Be Held on April 24

An official step in this year's political activities here was taken this morning when the Marion County board of elections opened its office on Tuesday to prepare for the presidential preference primary scheduled for April 24.

The purpose of opening the offices at this time is to receive and file declarations of candidacy for delegates to state and national conventions.
After filing these declarations voters will cast their ballots for delegates to the national conventions. Marion County is expected to have a representation of 12 delegates at the Democratic state convention and a small number at the Republican convention. The apportionment under present law is one delegate for each electoral district for governor in the last state election.

Meetings Planned
Democratic and Republican county committees are expected to meet within the next few days to draw up their list of state delegates.

The state conventions are to be held in national conventions, scheduled for June. The state meetings are for purposes of drafting platforms and giving support to the presidential candidates.

Delegates of both parties have already left their district states; the Republicans naming delegates pledged to support Frank B. Willis for president and Democrats naming representatives pledged to support Alton Pomerene.

Willis Opposition

There will be no contest on the Democratic side but according to reports now in circulation, the Willis opponents may have opposition.

A prominent local Republican said that he understands a movement already under way to enter Hoover into this district.

The board of elections office will be approximately two weeks to arrange preliminary details for the presidential primary. A. W. Kette, clerk of the board, said today. Official blanks for listing declarations of candidacy are on hand, having been received from the secretary of the office in charge of Mrs. Ralph H. Clark, deputy clerk.

Ammons of South Bend Testifies Before Indiana Attorney General

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—That the local organization of the Ku Klux Klan urged that whipping and tar and feathers be used to revive interest in the dying St. Joseph County was alleged here today by Pat Ammons of South Bend, former exalted leader of the Klan from Indiana.

Ammons made the charge during a hearing held by Attorney General Arthur L. Gilhorn in his office at the State House for use in his suit against the Klan from Indiana.

He recommended for drastic terms came through a national representative whose name was Sirmam, according to the testimony of Ammons.

Ammons said that W. Lee Smith,
the grand dragon of the Indiana Klan outlined with him a program from local to national political terms. When the South Bend Klan was tested because they were forced to pay a per capita tax to the national Klan, Ammons said that he explained that much of this sum was to achieve the political ambitions of the hooded order.

Campbell Hurls Auto Over Florida Beach at 206 Miles Per Hour; Cracks All Marks

British Racer Takes Four-Mile Start Before He Passes First Timing Device on Course; Better Record of Major Segrave by Three Miles

DATTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British racer, today held the new world's auto speed record, having driven his Napier Bluebird over the Daytona-Ormond Beach at a rate of 206.0602 miles per hour. It took him 17.395 seconds to cover the mile. This was over three miles per hour faster than the world record established last year by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave.

Captain Campbell took a four-mile start before he passed the first timing device over the mile course. His first run with the wind gave him an average of 214.70713 miles per hour. On the return trip, against the wind, he covered the mile at slightly more than 190 miles per hour; the elapsed time was the new world record.

INVESTIGATE RUMOR OF SINCLAIR BONDS

Senate Committee Will Attempt To Trace Funds to C. O. P.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The five-year-old rumor that Harry E. Sinclair, the lesser of Teapot Dome, turned over several hundred thousand dollars in Liberty Bonds to pay off debts of the Republican National Committee in the national and Liberty National of New York campaign, will be investigated this week at the Senate oil committee. Sinclair has testified he gave $75,000 to the Republicans but that he made much larger and other contributions through his friends and business associates. This far but one of these gifts has been traced, a $75,000 offer of Liberty Bonds used to pay off a Republican debt with the Empire Trust Co. of New York.

The Senate Public Lands Committee will meet again Thursday and officers of your great banking institutions have been subpoenaed. The banks named several hundred thousand dollars in Liberty Bonds to pay off debts of the Republican National Committee in the national and Liberty National of New

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint, which is a combination of some and other mild laxative herbs, with pepin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic purges and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Peppermint," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

PAN-AMERICAN MEET IN FINAL SESSION

U. S. Delegation Highly Pleased with Results; Last Day Seen as Peaceful

Havana, Feb. 20.—With the United States delegation highly pleased with the results among which are included four post-war important achievements of the conference as a whole, the sixth Pan American Conference embarked upon its final session today.

Although some bitterness on the part of several Latin American states was evident, tangible evidence of amicable relations, which, during the course of the gathering, have sprung from routine dullness to meetings enlivened with fiery oratory and diplomatic brilliance.

The question of arbitration, regarded from the outset as a firecracker with fuse split, has been shelved for further discussion.

Among other less conspicuous but highly important achievements of the conference, those four stand out today as paramount:

1. The declaration for obligatory arbitration and the agreement to meet in Washington for the negotiation of a general treaty.

2. The adoption of a Pan-American aviation treaty.

3.—The great strengthening of the Pan-American union by putting on a firm basis as a non-political agency of continental solidarity.

4.—Important steps forward in the codification of international law.

The plenary session today was expected to ratify the projects on arbitration and the Pan American Union.

FLIGHT DELAYED

Stultz Finds Curtiss Field Runaway Not in Starting Condition

Curtiss Field, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Temporary plans to start a long distance duration flight were definitely canceled early today by Wilmer Stultz, pilot of Charles A. Levine's Bellanca monoplane, Columbia, after Stultz had examined the runway at Roosevelt Field and found that it would not be in condition to support the weight of the plane with a heavy load of fuel.

No definite information in regard to Levine's plane was obtainable here. Stultz said that a non-stop flight to Hawaii and an attempt to break the world's duration record were both active possibilities and that if the flight to Hawaii were made, Miss Maehl Bell, so-called "queen of diamonds," might be a passenger.

WITH THE STAR STAFF

ALTHOUGH the Ohio real estate law has been in effect a comparatively short time, it has already yielded mixed results to the general public. J. W. Jacoby, Marion attorney and realtor who did probably more than any other person to bring about enactment of the statute, has received numerous reports from various parts of the state praising the new system and its results. Jacoby is chairman of the state board of license examiners named to enforce the measure.

The licensing system has been especially effective in the larger cities, where highly reputable practices in the real estate business have been most prevalent.

Editorial Comment

An evidence of what is being done in these places, the Cleveland News in a recent issue printed the following editorial comment:

"In the war against shady real estate transactions and equally shady dealers, the Ohio state board of real estate examiners is performing yeoman service. The time is rapidly disappearing when anybody can become a real estate salesman merely by expressing a wish. There are standards to be met and those standards are definite. Men guilty of unethical practices are finding their licenses revoked and the profession and public warned against them."

"The Ohio real estate license law has been equipped with teeth. It is assisting greatly real estate dealers anxious to elevate their business to a professional level. The high-pressure salesman who plays upon old men and hapless widows continues in existence, but he is a rarity. The odds are against his remaining long at his trade. Real estate dealers have combined to propel him rapidly toward the doors of the nearest prison, and he knows it."

"Nowhere is honesty more essential than among the dealers in real property. The insistence upon high ethical standards by responsible real estate men, which has made the license law vital, has been one of the most powerful weapons against dishonest trade practices in Ohio."

A LARGE batch of incoming mail was piled up at the Postoffice. The operator was preparing to send the letters and cards through the machine when a very ordinary thing happened. The "Felt" slug dropped out of the machine.

The operator began a search. Others joined him but the slug could not be found. Cases were moved and the floor within a radius of 15 feet of the machine thoroughly gone over.

After 20 minutes of effort one of the searchers suggested that the operator turn down the cuff of his trousers. He did and the missing slug dropped to the floor.

This story came to light yesterday when a diner at the Y. M. C. A. dropped a small coin while paying his check. The coin struck the floor and bounced. A hasty search was made but the coin could not be found.

Frank Thomas, an employee of the postoffice, remembering the lost slug incident, suggested that the diner look in the cuff of his trousers. He did and recovered the coin.

MY experience in collecting old guns shows that of my collection of about 50, nine of them came to me loaded," declared Uncle Eddie Baum, warning folks to beware of "old guns." "It is a mistaken idea that the load in a gun left exposed to the weather is harmless or that the different changes in atmosphere will cause the powder to deteriorate and become non-explosive," he stated.

"In removing the loads from three guns which had been in them any where from 10 to 40 years, I did not find a single instance where the powder failed to explode after being removed. One old gun presented me a short time ago by Murray Miller, of LaRue, had a card attached to it bearing the information that the gun had been found on the Kansas Plains in the year 1865. It had been handed down in the Tommy Miller family and had been through the war with the Indians on the plains. The gun had every indication of having lain on the ground for many years as the barrels were badly rusted and the stock in a semi-decayed state. Both barrels were loaded with heavy shot and while the shot were still bright and white the wads nearly decayed the powder was in a highly explosive condition.

"Among the most recent additions to my collections are a rifle and a double barrel shotgun, given me by Mrs. Harry Metz, Meeker, formerly the property of the late Henry Metz. They were heirlooms in the Metz homestead but it was somewhat of a relief to find the gun revealed the fact it had been loaded Oct. 13, 1903.

The only gun which remains loaded in my collection is the one presented by the late Captain Milton Marsh a few weeks before his death. The load in it is very likely was put in during his service in the war of 92.

Other prize possessions are the guns given me by Dr. Finley Vandordall, ex-servt of LaRue, one carried by his son, John A. Vandordall, in the battle of Gettysburg, and the other, carried by a confederate soldier in the same battle. The latter was found by Mrs. Hattie Bailey, a stern-lawn of John A. Vandordall, on the old Bailey farm, on which the battle of Gettysburg was fought, and given her to

Mr. Vandordall. Another interesting gun is one given me by a man in Sheboygan, Ala., who had personally picked up on the battlefield.

Before placing the guns in his collection, Mr. Baile examines them carefully, repairs them, and attaches a brass tag bearing the name of the original owner and the donor. He plans to place them on exhibition this coming May.

NATE GROUP WILL PROBE COAL STRIKE

Committee To Inspect Mining Camps in Vicinity of Pittsburgh

COLUMBUS, Feb. 20.—A full and impartial investigation of actual conditions in the strike-torn Pennsylvania coal fields was promised today by Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho, and the special Senate coal committee leaves here Wednesday for Pittsburgh to inspect mining camps in that region. Side trips will be made to West Virginia and to Pennsylvania fields but the committee's itinerary has not been mapped out. The investigating trip is not expected to require more than a week as the committee is anxious to return to Washington to begin hearing witnesses on coal conditions in the bituminous fields.

Conditions Deplorable.

"We are not going to the mines with preconceived ideas or with any axe to grind," said Gooding. "We want to know conditions as they actually exist in the coal fields."

The inquiry was ordered as result of the adoption of a resolution by Senator Johnson, Republican of California. He charged that conditions in coal fields were "deplorable" to thousands of miners and their families, facing starvation and unemployment because of eviction from company houses.

Delegates of the United Mine Workers ratified these charges with allegations of more big railroads, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, had entered into "a conspiracy" to depress coal prices and wreck the strike. This angle of the inquiry likely will be touched by the committee when it opens hearings here.

To Swear Witnesses.

The committee has been authorized to swear witnesses and take testimony at the mining camps and an official telegrapher will be taken along. Only two witnesses who are physically unable to make a trip to Washington will be examined.

Leaving operators reported to the committee today they welcomed the first coal inquiry. The Pittsburgh Coal Company, largest non-union coal company in the country, declared its camps and facilities would be open for fullest inspection. The company has been operating with non-union labor since 1925.

Murray Represents Union.

John L. Lewis, president of the miners, does not plan to go to Pittsburgh with the committee. The union's case will be presented by Philip Murray, vice president, who has been placed in complete charge of the Pittsburgh office.

Besides Gooding, members of the committee are:

Senators Metcalf of Rhode Island and Long of Oklahoma, Republicans, and Representative John Weller, Democrat.

Marion Council Holds Annual Banquet at Hotel Marion; Dance Follows

Two officers of the state United Commercial Traders' organization and one national officer were guests of honor Saturday night, at the annual banquet and ball of Marion Council, No. 120, U. C. T., held at Hotel Marion, and gave addresses in connection with a program which followed dinner, served at 6 o'clock.

The speakers were C. C. Lewis of Toledo, grand councilor, William Haffman of Tiffin, grand secretary, and Walter S. Arnold of Dayton, member of the supreme executive committee. Edward H. Huggins, secretary of Marion Council, presided as toast master.

Following the addresses, a dance program was enjoyed with music furnished by Bernheim's orchestra. Guests not dancing played cards and bridge.

Eight guests were present for the ball, which was in charge of a committee consisting of William McMurtry, Robert Williams and A. C. Stout.

J. W. JACOBY NAMED ON TAX COMMITTEE

One of Four Men Chosen by National Association of Real Estate Boards

J. W. Jacoby of this city is one of four Ohio realtors named to serve on important committees of the National Association of Real Estate Boards this year, according to an announcement made Saturday by Henry G. Zander of Chicago, president of the national organization.

Mr. Jacoby, the announcement stated, will serve as a member of the taxation committee which is directing a movement for modernization of state tax systems.

The three other Ohio realtors chosen with appointments are Walter S. Sturman, Cincinnati, named as a member of the executive committee; Alexander S. Taylor, Cleveland, federal legislative committee; and Arthur E. Young, Portsmouth, building and loan committee.

LINDY OFF TODAY ON OLD MAIL ROUTE

Chicago Social Leaders "Tipped" Not To Plan Any Affairs for Him

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Civic organizations and society leaders were "tipped off" today that it would probably be useless to plan any large affairs in honor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is scheduled to arrive here tonight in his old capacity of St. Louis-to-Chicago airmail pilot.

Lindbergh, it was said, has expressed a desire for simplicity, which was taken to mean that he will prefer to share the humble fare and modest sleeping quarters of the other mail.

The famous aviator who is scheduled to make one round trip over his old route, will leave St. Louis at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon. He is scheduled to arrive at Chicago at 7:15 p.m.

His plane and five others, manned by his former buddies in the service, will be parked with mail.

The return trip will be made tomorrow.

It was just about this time last year that Lindbergh, then an obscure airmail pilot, quit his job to prepare for his special New York-to-Paris flight.

DOCTORS SHOW HOW TO WAKE UP WITHOUT COLD

Many Here End Head Cold and Chest Cold in Few Hours at Home by Hospital Method

The pleasure of quick relief, a good night's sleep and waking up the next morning without the misery and danger of a head cold, cough or chest cold.

This, briefly, is the substance of reports from hundreds of Marion people who have found quick relief through a pleasant and inexpensive home method recommended by physicians.

Mrs. W. H. Burnett, for example, was treated for a severe cold which started in her nose passages and had spread down towards her lungs, causing fear of pneumonia. Doctors immediately prescribed double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients which have relieved even the most extreme hospital cases.

Relief began with the first pleasant swallow. She felt its comforting, healing warmth from her nasal passages deep down into her chest. In a few hours the cold had cleared up noticeably and that night she breathed freely and didn't cough once. In another day or two, the doctor reports, all traces of the cold were gone.

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified to this paper by the attending physician.

The prisoners included William Reynolds, 34, secretary of the international labor defense, one of the men carrying a "Down With Mussolini" banner who engaged in a fight with police, and Leon Roettger, 35, accused of having attacked a member of the racing committee.

When the station demonstration subsided, Baron De Martini was escorted under heavy guard to the Hotel Cadillac, where he was visited by Mayor John C. Lodge. During the visit, several hundred police were stationed at entrances to the hotel, in the lobby and up and down Washington and Michigan aves.

These officers were augmented, shortly afterward, by others when his excellency was escorted to City Hall to obey the mayor's call. The same guard was in readiness to escort the ambassador to Dearborn for lunch with Edsel Ford.

state. He even resorted to a pun, by saying the state had "a Brown taste in its mouth."

"A belated rumor, explanatory of the excess vigor he displayed, came to Columbus yesterday. It seems Federal Judge Kilts of Toledo is expected to retire at an early date, probably this spring, and a man bearing the name of Fred W. Warner of Marion had been under consideration for appointment to fill the vacancy.

"Before anyone yields to the temptation to criticize Fred for hitting and bickering, if he did, just pause and figure how you would like it yourself, to be facing that possible situation and honor and then find someone had mopped up the situation and the bickering lines had been foiled.

"He might get the appointment anyway, for senatorial approval has a powerful influence in such appointments. Senator Willis and Senator Fess stand well at the White House and appreciate the loyalty of their many friends.

COUNTY DIGS WAY OUT OF SNOWSTORM

Five Motor Plows Used To Remove Blockades on Main Roads

worked continuously for 36 hours clearing the snow plows and late Sunday afternoon had practically all of the main roads of the county cleared.

This strenuous undertaking went for eight hours Sunday night and piled drifts over all of the north and south roads. After finishing the 36-hour grind late Sunday, Surveyor Leavens and his men went to their homes for a night's rest and this morning found that they had the major portion of their work to do over again.

Two of the plows used in battling the snow-drifts are owned by the county and the other is the property of Salt Rock Township. The Salt Rock road was used entirely on roads in the northern part of the county.

Buses Behind Schedule

Motor bus transportation was seriously handicapped, all cars running considerably behind schedule. Service was maintained, however, in sending the buses over detours where the snow drifts did not halt traffic entirely.

Railroads made operation of city and suburban car service difficult. On C. M. & St. Louis car was derailed a short distance north of the city about 10 o'clock this morning but no damage resulted.

The derailment resulted in one trip being eliminated from the morning schedule.

C. M. & St. Louis operated on schedule, it was stated at the company's office.

Three-Day Undertaking

County Surveyor Leavens said today that making a complete trip over all of the county roads with the snowplows is practically a three-day undertaking. The plows to have this done, however, unless a thaw sets in or other conditions develop which eliminate necessity of using the plows.

One of the first places given attention by the surveyor and his men this morning was in Richland township, where roads were completely blocked and a family in need of a doctor's services had sent in a call for help. A path was cleared so that the physician could reach the home about 9 o'clock.

FOUR ARE DEAD

Three Extra-Alarm Fires in Cleveland Do Heavy Damage

Cleveland, Feb. 20—Cleveland and northern Ohio today were in the grip of a cold wave, with the mercury hovering close to zero. The wind was blowing a gale this morning, driving snow before it, blinding motorists and pedestrians alike.

Four deaths here were attributed to the near-blizzard, two from exposure and two from traffic.

Fire department officials said there were more fire companies out at one period during the last 36 hours than at any time in the last 12 years. Thirteen extra-alarm fires, fanned by high winds and causing property damage of approximately $350,000, were recorded. The last of the three, in a downtown four-story building, was the most disastrous, necessitating an eleven-hour battle by 23 companies before being brought under control.

MYERS Y. COOPER IS LUNCHEON SPEAKER

Candidate for Governor in Last Election Addresses Rotary Club

The need of more politicians of the type who are interested in better government methods and not so many of those who are interested only in what they are able to get out of it, was stressed by Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati banker and home builder, and Republican candidate for governor two years ago in an address at the luncheon of the Rotary Club held at Hotel Harding at noon today.

Too many think because they do not have a tax receipt in their hands, they should not be interested in the political welfare of their state, the speaker declared. This is a great mistake. Every person is paying 30 cents out of every dollar for the operation of the state, if not in taxes, at least in rent.

Or the money spent by the state last year for operating expenses, it was pointed out by Mr. Cooper, 33 per cent went for personal services, 2.8 per cent for maintenance, nine per cent for additions and betterment, 30 per cent for education, 1.7 per cent for health, 2.1 per cent for public welfare, 8.8 per cent for agriculture, 1.2 per cent for administrative expenses, 6.8 per cent for the support of the women school districts and 6.6 per cent for general expenses.

The state received last year $64,611,687.11, the speaker declared. In the expenditures of such a great sum of money men should be selected for their efficiency the state or would be the case in the private enterprise, he said.

Proposed Tribute to Child

The speaker paid tribute to the work the child is doing for the children. "You see the world wall of pain and suffering, bright rays of hope, you see the world of poverty, you see the world of wealth, you see the world of opportunity, you see the world of opportunity."

Let 'em Dance, Mayor Tells Grangers; Dance With 'em

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 20—"For heaven's sake, let them dance—and better still, dance with them."

Up and down the Penobscot, from the rim of the great north wood to the sea, today reached them words of advice from John Wilson, known as "the wise mayor of way down east."

Grangers of eastern Maine had been talking of barring dancing in grange halls and at grange meetings. The "Lindbergh Glide," the "Vanity Drag" and the other modern rhythmic and daring movements had "hit" the country towns, and "ma" and "pa" had been frowning.

Youth today is wise, sees that conditions have changed in the social life just as they have joined in the industrial life, thinks the mayor.

Yet the older generation, like the ostrich, he believes, seeks to avoid the dangers by burying heads in the sand.

GRAND JURY MEETS AT CALL OF JUDGE

Jurors Convene To Consider Eight Criminal Cases in Common Pleas Court

The Marion County grand jury, called back into session on an order issued last week by Judge Scoufield, convened at 9 o'clock this morning to consider eight criminal cases which have accumulated since the jury held its first session in January.

It was expected that the jurors would complete their work shortly after noon. Cases are being presented by Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wedemann.

The grand jury was convened at this time, court officials stated, to prevent an unnecessarily large accumulation of cases when the next term of court opens in May.

The grand jury on duty at today's session are Edgar F. Mayfield, Mrs. Zelma M. Avenue, J. D. Gilopele, Frank C. Tuttle, Henry D. Shuman, Mrs. Amy V. Turner, Harry J. Shultz, Mrs. Alice M. Dingler, J. D. Deere, Mrs. Fern M. Waddell, Guy C. Stoll, Milton Swisher, Joseph Voll, E. T. Parish and Gus Finch.

Hearing Postponed

Hearing in the receivership action brought against the McMurray Bulk Co., set for today, has been postponed at the request of attorneys in the case. W. P. Moloney, attorney for the company, was called out of the city and could not be present, it was stated. It is expected that the application for a receiver will be scheduled for hearing some time next week.

The Aniston Star remarks that "it begins to look as though Kansas City might have an elephant on its hands." However, in view of the representation from the South, it can hardly be said that it will be a white elephant.

It's pleasing to read that Mrs. Coolidge is sufficiently recovered from her recent illness to be up and around the White House. True, the physicians in attendance reported that she was not seriously ill, but the announcement that she is able to leave her apartment is a lot more comforting.

Secretary of War Davis has received a letter from a New York state boy asking the secretary to have Uncle Sam send him to battleship and a destroyer. That lad may grow up to be a politician, but, thank heaven, it's hardly likely that he will turn out to be a pesky pacifist.

While the good purpose of the Arizona man, who has presented Bibles to the senate and house office buildings in Washington, is apparent, we should appreciate the fact that it's one thing to lead a horse to water and quite another thing to make it drink.

A British pilot nosed the Leviathan, enroute to Southampton, into a sand bar. The Leviathan has been permitted to go around over there so often that one of these days the suspicion is liable to be aroused that the British pilots are a bit careless in the handling of alien vessels.

Helen Lambert, night club entertainer, has sued Robert Amos, the actor who eloped with Muriel Calus, the society girl, for $400,000 heart balm, accusing him of having caused her the loss of her faith in all men. If you ask us, $400,000 worth is an awful lot of faith in mankind.

The little town of Milo, up in Maine, reports that it has been rocked four times within the past three weeks by earthquakes. Possibly, so, but in the interest of accuracy it might be well for the townspeople up there to investigate the physical condition of the stilts in that vicinity. Stilts all over the country have been growing a bit bolsterous, of late.

The picture pages of a number of big city dailies, last Saturday, showed Senator Thomas J. Walsh and Marie Montana, American opera singer from the senator's state, shaking hands. Which one of them turned about to face the camera? No; you're wrong. Vanity isn't confined to the gentler sex.

The resignation of Dr. Horacio Pueyrredon, both as ambassador to Washington and as head of the Argentine delegation to the Pan-American conference in Havana, was quickly accepted by his government. Had the doctor been afflicted with less degree of egotism, he might have realized that civilized governments in this day and age haven't an overly high degree of appreciation for diplomats whose sole ambition seemingly is to throw a monkey wrench into the wheels of progress.

Proposed New Highway.

While it is pleasing to know that the people of Prospect and all other communities along the route of a proposed east-and-west highway from Mt. Vernon to Bellefontaine are as one in advocacy of its construction, support of the proposed highway should not be limited to that of such communities. The proposal should have the support, the enthusiastic support, of all the people of the several counties through which the highway, if constructed, will pass.

Those familiar with the southern part of this county know how advantageous such a highway would be, not only to the people of Prospect and Waldo townships, but also those residing in the townships to the south of them across the Marion-Delaware county line. And what is true in the cases of these people is true along the route of the proposed highway.

But the matter goes much further than that. There was a time when the benefit to be had from a road was largely limited to those who lived along it or near thereto. That day is no more. Since the automobile has come into general use, the local benefit of a road alone is no longer to be considered. Any new state highway is of general benefit for it is used by the general public from miles and miles around. The motor car has wiped out consideration of ordinary distance. It has made the people of the next county and even the next state, in many cases, even closer to us than were the people of some parts of our own county before the advent of the automobile as a common means of transportation. For this reason the proposed highway is a matter which should prove of interest to all the people of Marion and surrounding counties, and it should be given their support.

The matter is to come up for hearing before Highway Director G. F. Schlesinger, in Columbus, the last day of this month, at which time every effort should be made to bring about the authorization of the proposed new state route.

American Republics Against War.

From time to time many are urging peace to the outlawing of war by stipulating clauses for the arbitration of international disputes have been offered looking to world peace but it is to be questioned if any of them has been so succinctly and forcefully put as was that of Senor Fernando Gonzalez Roa, of Mexico, before the Pan-American conference in Havana which caused all the republics of North, Central and South America to commit themselves "to obligatory arbitration as the means which they will employ for the peaceful solution of their international differences of a juridical nature."

Senor Roa's declaration was that "there is no international dispute, no matter how serious, which can not be settled pacifically if the parties really desire a pacific conclusion" and this accepted as a truth, makes plain that any "war of aggression constitutes an international crime against humanity."

But while it is true that the principle of compulsory arbitration has been adopted by the American republics for the settlement of all differences of a juridical nature and arrangements have been made for a pact, treaty, agreement—call it what you will—for the carrying out of the arbitration principle, we do not feel that the agreement reached in Havana as a result of the Roa resolution is, to say nothing of some editorial opinions we have come upon hold out. As we see it, this country is not committed to arbitration of any matter which it has not been willing for years to submit to arbitration. The first three paragraphs of the compromise resolution adopted following the two paragraphs by way of preamble read:

"1.—That the republics of America adopt obligatory arbitration as the means which they will employ for the pacific solution of their international differences of a juridical nature.

"2.—That the republics of America will meet in Washington within a period of one year in a conference of conciliation and arbitration to draw up a convention for the realization of this principle with the minimum exceptions which they consider indispensable to safeguard the independence and the sovereignty of the states as well as its exercise in matters within their domestic jurisdiction, and also excluding matters involving the interests or relating to the action of a state not a party to the convention.

"3.—That the governments of the American republics will send for this purpose plenipotentiary juriconsults with instructions regarding the maximum and the minimum which they would accept with regard to obligatory arbitral jurisdiction."

A study of the three foregoing paragraphs will not disclose anything to bind this country to arbitrate any question which it has not long been ready to arbitrate at any time. In fact, the language shows that each signatory has a right to make exceptions of matters which it is unwilling to submit to arbitration. The third paragraph makes this plain. But the agreement does not put all the American republics on record as holding that it is their desire "to give expression to their condemnation of war as an instrument of national policy in their mutual relations" and voices their anxiety "to contribute in every possible way to the development of international arrangements for the pacific settlement of international disputes," and that is going a long way, for not all American republics have been thus committed heretofore.

We believe that there will be general acceptance of Mr. Hughes' view that the agreement "is the most practical step that could be taken toward pacific settlement of international disputes."

Jacqueline Logan has sued her Hollywood realtor husband, Robert Gillespie, for divorce, alleging that he drinks to excess. Another illusion shattered! We never imagined that possible out there.

The first of the twenty-five new Keystone bombing planes being built for the army having been sent out here to Ohio, and it may be well to state, lest misapprehension obtain, that its advent here has no possible connection with the Republican presidential primary in this state.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

J. P. Q.—Would high blood pressure cause the chest to be continually red?

2—Is it good for the lungs? Can it be taken at any time without harm?

A—No; probably due to a circulatory disturbance.

2—Yes. It may be taken at any time where there is a weakness of the lungs.

R. M. Q.—Do you advise —— for the eyes?

2—What can I do for pleurisy?

A—No. Try one per cent. oxide of mercury ointment, applying to the lids and lashes each night.

2—Correct the diet, cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Almost always constipation or at least sluggish bowel movements are present. For full details send self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

I DO WANT TO SAY THIS IN CONCLUSION, HOWEVER, THAT YOU SHOULD NOT DISREGARD A HEADACHE WHICH PERSISTS, OR A HEADACHE WHICH OCCURS EVERY TWO OR THREE DAYS. THERE IS SOME UNDERLYING CAUSE FOR THIS HEADACHE AND IT SHOULD BE DISCOVERED.

I HAVE NO DESIRE TO ALARUM YOU, OF COURSE, BUT DON'T PERMIT YOURSELF TO SUFFER WITH HEADACHE WHEN BY A LITTLE STUDY AND THE PRACTICE OF A FEW SIMPLE RULES, YOU MAY OVERCOME THIS UNCOMFORTABLE SILENCE.

THE DIRECT PRIMARY.

The primary was added to our political machinery as a result of political hysteria, the feeling being current at the time that somehow the common voter was not having a fair show in the naming of candidates for public office, and the direct primary was suggested as the great corrective. With printed ballots in every home and ballot boxes in every doorway, it was expected that there would be a fine big concerted uprising of the citizenship of the country for the selection and election of the best men. It was also argued that the direct primary was to open the way for the able, honest, yet poor, man to make his way into public life at a minimum of expense.

UNHAPPILY ALL THESE FORECASTS HAVE GONE BY THE BOARD. THE MAN WITH HIS INDIVIDUAL BALLOT IN HAND AND AWAY FROM HIS OPPORTUNITY TO COULD WITH HIS FELLOW PARTY MEN, HAS SIMPLY REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE IN PRIMARIES AND ELECTIONS AND WE HAVE A STEADILY DECREASING TOTAL OF ACTUAL VOTERS. PUBLIC OFFICES IN MANY CASES NOW REPRESENT THE MINORITY AND NOT THE MAJORITY OF PARTY MEN OR VOTERS AT LARGE. THE DIRECT PRIMARY HAS ALSO INTRODUCED A DISCUSSION OF PERSONALITY RATHER THAN PRINCIPLES AND, WHILE INDEPENDENCE IN VOTING IS HELD AS A CARDINAL VIRTUE, IT IS AN UNFORTUNATE FACT THAT THE VIGOROUS INDEPENDENT VOTER SEEMS MORE INCLINED TO EXERCISE HIS POWERS IN VOCAL DECLARATIONS AT THE CORNER GROCERY STORE RATHER THAN AT THE VOTING BOOTH. IT IS BEING MADE PLAIN ALL THE TIME THAT WE ARE SUFFERING FROM LACK OF PARTY CLOTHES.

AS FOR THE OPPORTUNITIES OF THE POOR MAN, HE IS NOW MUCH MORE FREQUENTLY HARRIED THAN EVER. INSTEAD OF ONE ELECTION, HE IS OBLIGED TO GO THROUGH TWO—ONE FOR THE NOMINATION AND THEN ONE FOR THE ELECTION. THE CASE FOR AND AGAINST THE DIRECT PRIMARY IS NOT IN YET, AND THE TIME FOR SOBER JUDGMENT MAY NOT HAVE ARRIVED, BUT IT IS A MATTER OF SATISFACTION THAT IN VARIOUS STATES OF THE UNION REAL INQUIRIES ARE NOW BEING MADE AS TO THE WORKINGS OF THE SYSTEM AND THE POSSIBILITY OF AMENDMENT OR CORRECTION IS BEING SERIOUSLY DISCUSSED.—PRESTON TIMES.

DR. COPELAND WILL ANSWER FOR READERS OF THIS PAPER QUESTIONS ON MEDICAL, HYGIENIC AND SANITATION SUBJECTS THAT ARE OF GENERAL INTEREST. WHERE THE SUBJECT OF A LETTER IS SUCH THAT IT CAN NOT BE PUBLISHED IN THIS COLUMN, DR. COPELAND WILL, WHEN THE QUESTION IS A PROPER ONE, WRITE YOU PERSONALLY IF A SELF-ADDRESS, STAMPED ENVELOPE IS ENCLOSED. ADDRESS ALL INQUIRIES TO DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, IN CARE OF THIS OFFICE.

Racing the Sun.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"If an aviator could travel at the same speed as the earth revolves, travelling from east to west and starting from a given point on the equator on a Monday noon, when would he again arrive at that point, and would he be asleep in the daytime?"

Since he would keep up with the sun, it would be always noon for him, if he started at noon. He would return to the starting point in twenty-four hours; but while it would seem to him to be the same noon that he started with, yet the people who had remained at the starting point would call it Tuesday noon instead of Monday noon. This is because in order to keep the days of the week running in regular order we have to change the name of the day at the end of every twenty-four hours.

The reckoning of world time starts on the meridian of Greenwich, and it is twelve hours from that meridian, counting westward, to the counter meridian on the opposite side of the globe. So, noon at Greenwich corresponds to midnight on the counter meridian. It is far more convenient to change the name of the day at midnight than at noon, therefore the change is made on the meridian opposite to Greenwich. That meridian runs through the middle of the Pacific ocean, which is another reason for changing the day there, because there are no inhabitants to be confused by a change of name made in the middle of the day.

In order to keep up with the sun, an aviator travelling along the equator would have to have a speed of about 1,000 miles an hour. But if he travelled in some high latitude, say north latitude forty-nine degrees, he would need a speed of only about 750 miles an hour in order to keep up with the sun and enjoy perpetual daylight as long as he continued to fly. He could have it perpetual noon, or perpetual morning, or perpetual evening according to his fancy. The reason why the aviator would have to travel faster over the equator than elsewhere is because the distance around the earth is greatest at the equator, and diminishes toward the poles.

It is quite possible, if the improvement of aeroplanes continues that the time will soon come when an ace like Lindbergh could play some remarkable stunts with Father Time. For instance, if he should travel with a speed only one-third that of the sun, starting at day-break, say from Paris at the summer solstice, when the daytime is longest—sixteen hours out of the twenty-four—and travelling directly west, he would have twenty-four hours of continuous sunshine. For when he started the sun would be eight hours behind, i.e., to the east of him, and noon could not occur for him until the sun overtook him. As the sun would gain two hours out of every three, it would require twelve hours to come up with Lindbergh and make room for him. His forenoon then would have been extended to twelve hours length. The afternoon would be equally stretched out, so that by 11th time the sun set for Lindbergh he would have had twenty-four hours of sunshine. During that time he would have travelled from Paris to the center of the state of Washington, one-third of the circuit of the globe, while the sun would have gone completely around and arrived again where it was when Lindbergh started his journey.

If space allowed, many curious results of a similar nature could be shown to flow from the racing of a swift aeroplane with the sun, and also against the sun. Such things may some day become commonplace of human experience. —Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

A fibre rope that is unbreakable has been produced in Holland. The rope includes a core of "foam rubber" that has a specific gravity only one-fourth as great as that of cork.

The Antivenin Institute of America, which was established through the cooperation of Harvard University and the Miltford Biological Laboratories of New Orleans, has just opened at Tela, Honduras, the largest station and laboratory in the world for the segregation of snakes and the extraction and drying of their poison. The poison is transformed into serum for the cure of snake bites.

A new method of extracting oil from grape seeds has been discovered by French chemists.

After the grapes have been pressed, the seeds are removed from the skins and dried. They are then subjected to a special process which extracts the oil in them. It is stated that about fifty pounds of oil can be obtained from 450 pounds of grape seeds.

A scientist of the Vienna Physiological Institute is reported to have produced a flour from the soy bean which has an immense value as a foodstuff, and contains the only plant albumen which is equal in value to the expensive animal albumen. Through adding five per cent. of soy to bread, the food value is increased considerably. Soy bread is said to remain fresh much longer than ordinary bread.

s. Victoria liams in Hospital Suffering From Wound, Exposure

Feb. 20—Mrs. Victoria Williams in Monette Hospital here to-day was hit in her arm and suffered exposure while police and doctors are seeking her in Jones County.

According to the woman's story, she was awakened early this morning when her husband shot at her in the bed. Jumping from bed, she ran from the house in her clothes with her husband in pursuit a quarter mile from their home. She said Mrs. Iiams fell in the snow and begged her husband not to shoot her.

"I got to Victoria," she said again. After the bullet struck Mrs. Williams she dragged herself to the house of a neighbor a half mile from home while her husband departed in the direction of their home.

Doctors were unable to obtain details of the shooting from Mrs. Williams.

Details came to Bucyrus and surgeons said he told of having quar-reals with his wife over financial matters.

Dr. Copeland
Says:

"Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many cathartic compounds. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes they are far less irritating. Indeed, many have qualities that make them soothing and healing. Sugar-coated pills are pleasant to take, which may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic because they appeal to the taste."

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, flushes the bowels and washes away impurities. It is gentle, soothing, healing, non-habit-forming. Corrects constipation and restores normal bowel movements. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

JOSEPH RITZLER, 54,
STRICKEN AT HOME

Former Night Policeman at Upper Sandusky Dies

Suddenly

Upper Sandusky, Feb. 20—Joseph Ritzler, 54, for a number of years night policeman of this city, died suddenly at his home, 228 N. Second St., Saturday night about 6 o'clock. He had been in poor health for about five months suffering from a heart affliction and droopy but his condition had not been considered critical.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Trinity Reformed Church in charge of Rev. George W. Good. Burial will be made in Old Mission Cemetery.

Mr. Ritzler was born in Hardin County, west of Kenton, his parents being Joseph and Eva Bouher Ritzler, both now deceased. He came to Upper Sandusky about 15 years ago, working at the Model Roller Mill for a number of years and for the past year as a moulder at the National Steam Pump Works. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Effie Losier, two sons, Charles and Kenneth, both of this city, one brother, Michael Ritzler of Kenton; and two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Grahams and Mrs. Frances Schofield, also residing in Kenton.

Collarbone

Mt. Gilad, Feb. 20—Mrs. Vera Howard, residing north of Chesterville, sustained a broken collar bone in an auto accident near Worthington Saturday morning about 11:30 o'clock. She was taken to Grant Hospital by the constable of Worthington.

She was a member of the party consisting of C. W. Gordon, Floyd Hart and Nancy Gordon who were bound for Grant Hospital to visit Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Gordon who are both recovering from operations. Mrs. Gordon was planning to return with the visitors but the accident made it necessary for her to come on the train.

They were in a Studebaker sedan

when the accident occurred, driving slowly on a comparatively smooth road.

Between the city of Worthington and the Brown Fruit Farm, the car suddenly skidded into the ditch and turned on the top and fell over on its side.

None of the other occupants were injured.

Upper Sandusky, Feb. 20—Two young men students at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, gave interesting addresses at the services at the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday. They were Horace Burkholder of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and Paul Ozaki, a Japanese, both of whom are preparing themselves for Christian work, one in the missionary field and the other as an instructor in Bible literature in his native country.

Tells of Milestone

Speaking at the morning service
Burkholder told of the four milestones in his life which led him to make this his life work. He also spoke before the Epworth League group choosing as his subject, "Four, Going On Five." Ozaki, who has been in this country only seven months gripped his audience with the earnestness and sincerity of his talk. Although the son of Buddhist parents, he had been permitted to attend the Methodist College in Japan and now to continue his studies at the college in charge of Rev. George

Games Will Be Resumed Next
Saturday at Marysville
Armory

Marysville, Feb. 20—Marysville was the mecca for hundreds of Union County basketball fans Saturday, who came to witness the annual Union County basketball tournament at the local armory. Each of the 14 schools entered in the tournament had a large delegation of rosters, who came to support their favorite team.

In the first round of the girls' games played during the morning session,
New Dover, Magnetic Springs, Milford Center, New California, Watkins and Irwin were the successful contestants.
New Dover defeated Allen Center by a 20 to 5 score in the first contest of the day. Other girls' scores were Magnetic Springs, 20, Richwood, 15; Milford Center, 16, Darby, 3; New California, 23, Taylor, 17; Watkins, 15;
York, 6; Irwin, 15; Belpoint, 9.

In his second round of the girls' games, played during the afternoon and evening, Raymond, who escaped the first round of the tournament by holding a tie was defeated by the Magnetic Springs team by a 21 to 12 score. Raymond was rated as one of the strong contenders for the girls' championship. Other scores were New California, 31; Milford Center, 16; Watkins, 10;
Irwin, 15; Belpoint, 9.

In the boys' round, New Dover escaped playing in the first bracket by holding a tie and will not take the floor until next Saturday, when they meet New California. The latter won over Watkins by a 20 to 8 score in the first game of the afternoon session.
Other scores were Allen Center, 10;
Parishburg, 9; Irwin, 43; Chillicothe, 7; Magnetic Springs, 21; Taylor, 16; Richwood, 16; Darby, 12; Milford Center also drew a "tie" and did not play in the first round.

After holding a 13 to 6 lead at the half and leading until the final minute of the game, York was defeated by Richwood 16 to 17 in an exciting game, which closed the day's playing.
The Richwood defense which was ragged during the first half tightened and held York Center to one free throw, while the Richwood center and forwards opened up on the offensive which netted them a number of baskets.
Dyer led York in scoring with 10 points to his credit and W. Clevenger and Reese starred for Richwood.

Arrangements for the tournament are in charge of a committee composed of County Superintendent J. A. Yealey, H. L. Steward, of New California, A.
P. Russell, of Richwood and W. E.
Gregory, of Magnetic Springs.
Officials are L. N. Drake, of O. S. C.
of Columbus, and G. L. Smith, of Ohio Northern, referees; Duncan McLean of Magnetic Springs, scorekeeper; and W. P. Vigor, of Plain City, timekeeper.

Brides in Ten Cities Tell Housekeeping Plans

NEW YORK, N. Y.—A thousand brides in ten large cities disclosed their household plans in a recent survey.

On one point all these brides agreed. Their homes are to be run with skill, but they will not sacrifice a bit of good looks or charm. For instance, nearly all have decided how they will keep hands clean in spite of housework.

Many had noticed in beauty parlors that pure Lux soaps are used in manicuring to soften and whiten the fingers. Others had noticed how nice their hands looked after washing fine things with Lux. So, of 1,118 brides, 1,084, or 97%, plan to wash dishes with Lux.

"It's so easy never to let your hands get red and coarse-looking," they said. "Many soaps make the skin harsh, but pure Lux soaps are so soothing and gentle! And Lux for dishes is inexpensive, too, because the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes."

"Two Stolen Idols"

A Story of Love and Adventure

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

(Copyright, 1927, Geo. H. Doran Co., by Arrangement with King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FAR had come upon Bob Kingsley, and as the hours passed it knew no deeper at the man's soul. At times compunction drove him near to the verge of madness; at times he was a man panic-stricken in the face of despair.

All day he had been here in this impounded prison house, his appeals unheeded, and powerless in a physical sense to aid himself. Richardson had literally kept his word. He had seen Richardson since the man had left him in the hands of the natives out there on the beach; but, on reaching Arou, he, Bob Kingsley, had been thrust into an old shed on the plantation, and the "curios"—not far from being literally true, too!—in the shape of leg-irons and manacles had been shackled on his ankles and wrists. They were crudely and cheaply made iron, as befitted the savage market for which they were produced, when, in the not so very long ago, the big-birders bought them in wholesale quantities for their unholy trade, and they were rusty now, with the use of years—but they were strong. He could move about with short steps, a shuffling gait; the leg-irons permitted that—no more!

They had brought meals to him twice—in the morning, and at noon. He had seen no one save the Malay who had unmercifully served the food by thrusting it through the door and banging the door shut again. No one would come near him, and, do what he would, his appeals for a hearing had gone unheeded. At moments throughout the day he had shouted, when panic seized him, for Richardson—shouted until he could shout no more—shouted until in the minds of the natives, he knew, they thought him a madman caged. At other moments, he had beaten at the door, rained blows upon it with his manacles, swinging his fettered hands above his head—not that he might break it down, but that through persistence his summons might be answered. And outside he had heard the natives gather and laugh and chatter; and when their source of amusement was at an end, because through lack of strength he could beat no more upon the door, they went away, still laughing and chattering, childishly pleased with the entertainment that had been provided for them. At other moments, because the soul of the man was in extremity, he cursed Richardson with naked oaths and in abandon.

And now it was near evening. There were no windows in the shed to gather the approach of dusk, but there were cracks and interstices in the rough ill-jointed wall boards, and the little light that previously had seeped in therefrom was fading rapidly. He lay stretched out at full length on the ground, his head pillow'd on his forearm. It was one of his calmer physical moments—and perhaps the more bitter thereto!—for his mind refused him an instant's respite. It went on and on, always in a circle that began with Richardson's refusal to listen to him on the beach, that embraced thereafter the dire possibilities that promised to result from that refusal, and that always ended in making the situation appear but more starkly logical than before in its deadly peril—not for himself—for her. But, though it brought no reassurance and even tormored him, the cycle never ceased shore and talked together. When I was always the desperate hope looked again. Thus, they were gone that there might be some way out. It was very dark. I do not know where they went, but they were seen no more. We thought they, too, had been maimed the lighter and released to go to make search for the place of the shades, that his perspective was as distorted as at fault.

He lay very still now—like a man so deeply immersed in thought that he was lost to all outside and extraneous influences. The cycle always began that way—unemotionally, with abnormally calm concentration. His subconsciousness recognized this phase, and he was not deluded thereby into the belief at the end he would do anything other than beat futilely at the shed door again in a state of almost maniacal desperation—but his mind drove him on.

A cycle was beginning now. After Richardson's refusal to listen to him, he had come in from the beach peacefully enough with his Malay guards. It would have been not only useless but the part of a fool to have done anything else. He had even talked to them and after a while, though they kept close watch on him, they had allowed him a certain latitude, and, at his request, had eventually permitted one of the rescued Malays from the Monah to walk beside him for a little way.

From his guards he had discovered that Arou was a two hours' journey away from the scene of the wreck, and it was, as he had suspected, little more than a "one-man beach." There were several plantations that used it as a shipping point, but they were all widely scattered inland. Richardson's house was the only one on the shore, and his nearest neighbor was some two or three miles away. Also, they had told him, when he asked them, that there were no white women in Arou.

Bob Kingsley moved nervously now. His hands, unstrapped beyond his head, began to work one over the other.

The road had led through many open spaces so that when broad daylight had come he had been able to get at least a distant view of every one who marched or shuffled along in the strange and rather bedraggled procession of which he formed a part—and it was certain that no one of the five Chinamen was there. And when at last the opportunity had come to speak to one of the rescued Malays who had spent the night on the beach, he had asked the man what had become of the Chinamen—where they had last been seen, and when?

"Tuan," the man had answered, "we were all together on the shore. Those who came in Tuan Carter's boat, of whom I was one, made it known to the others that the serang had gone to find the way to a place whose name I do not yet know, where white men live, and there were houses and food. But because the serang knew not if it might be near or far, or even if he might find it at all in the night, he took only one man with him, and the rest, as I have told you, the Tuan, and as the Tuan knows, remained on the shore to await the serang's return. It was soon after we had made known these things to those who had come in the second boat that the men of whom the Tuan speaks went a little way off from us and sat upon the

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELLE GARRISON

The Producer Is All Set

As for Phil's third reason for attacking himself to Mother Griswold for the day? Lillian went on. "It's going to give him a chance to watch the cast of that most interesting quartet of youngsters. Mary Harrison, Eleanor Lincoln, Noel Veriten and young Mr. Jackson. Why he's so interested in their emotional reactions to each other, I can't fathom—it's the greatest puzzle of this whole affair of which Eleanor Lincoln is the center—but it is, and therefore the elaborate camouflage for the plain and fancy sleuthing on his part. Well! I'm going to be rid of Tabby at the rat hole, my self in my odd moments. Look! You have to slip it to Phil for artistry in carrying out his plans. His always can be depended on to brawn the toast on both sides."

My eyes followed her, and saw Otto Veriten's chauffeur unfolding a large and comfortable deck chair and a beach umbrella for Mother Griswold's use. I knew that in the wagon box of the old flivver driven by Jim there were folding chairs and beach umbrellas, but nothing so elaborate or so comfortable as these contrivances which Mr. Veriten so patiently had planned especially for my mother-in-law's comfort.

Ducky, with Junior on his lap, emerged from the men's bath house and plunged into the water, but I saw him stop short for a second at the sight of Mr. Veriten gallantly placing Mother Griswold in the chair with the big gaily-colored umbrella shading her from the sun, and knew that he had a complete picture of the scene respectfully imprinting upon his mind.

Young Mr. Jackson came out next and with a look around—which it was easy to guess was in search of Mary—walked down the beach toward us. But it was Eleanor who first emerged from the women's pavilion and ran lightly toward the beach. At her edge she stopped, looked across the bay to the oddly shaped cliffs beyond their edges like glittering serrated bayonet points in the sunlight, and then she turned impulsively to young Mr. Jackson, and spoke a few rapid words in a language unknown to me. But I could distinguish the one word, "Georges!" spoken in the manner of Sherlock!" she said.

"Correct, Sherlock!" she said while I thought guilty of the confidence which young Mr. Jackson had given me, and which I had not revealed to Lillian because, of my promise to the young man. "Here comes Mary now. Train your eyes that way."

He spoke but one word in answer, A man not perfect, but of heart so low that I could not distinguish it. As she heard it, her hand flew up to her lips with the frightened gesture of a child who has forgotten some prohibition laid upon it, and she turned toward Lillian and me quickly. Not we had averted our gaze, though beneath my lashes I could see the frightened look she sent toward us, and the relief which appeared upon her face, when she saw that we were not looking at her.

The next second they were both in the water wading out toward the depth which would enable them to swim. I did not intend to look at Philip Veriten, but my eyes went involuntarily to him, and I saw him tap the back of one sharply with the fingers of the other, such signal of annoyance upon his part.

"We're in the middle of the first act, all right," Lillian murmured, and indeed I also felt as if were witnessing the premiere of a play.

"They were both so flustered that they never thought to wait for Mary and Noel. And now that little matter is getting old Phil's goat. Watch Mary carefully when she comes out, and I'll keep my eyes trained on Phil. I suppose you realize what that little colloquy just now signified?"

"It's what we decided before, isn't it?" I answered, "that Eleanor Lincoln and young Mr. Jackson are old acquaintances?" This view evidently reminded her of one they had seen before, and she called to him concerning it before she remembered that they were supposed to be strangers.

"Correct, Sherlock!" she said while I thought guilty of the confidence which young Mr. Jackson had given me, and which I had not revealed to Lillian because, of my promise to the young man. "Here comes Mary now. Train your eyes that way."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and it was like being slapped in the face with a wet towel when I opened the window to let Jubilee down. When I had went down and fixed the front and had milked the dummed brutes, all but the horse, and had went in and was feeding my face my grandfather said he was sorry for the fish when it is foggy like it was then. My father asked him why, and my grandfather said they awoke up out of the water into the fog, and then when the fog goes they are left out on dry land several miles from water. He said he has caught lots of fishes on foggy days by baiting his hooks and hanging them on the clothesline. I went out and tried to dig a worm to try it with, but the frost isn't out of the ground yet, and anyhow my aunt called me to wash me for Sunday school before I could get my hook baited and hung up.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You should know in a few days after beginning the treatment that the dangerous poisons are leaving your system through the natural channels. Rheuma should please you in a day and make you hopeful of quick recovery in a week or money refunded. Henney & Cooper and druggists sell Rheuma with this guarantee.—Adv.

Business girls who let menstrual periods interfere with duty have not learned of Migid. This remarkable preparation neither hinders nor hinders the natural process of menstruation, nor it does stop the pain.

Migid is not a narcotic. It is just as safe as it is direct and certain. It is only common sense to use it. You have probably tried other things for menstrual pains, but so had the many thousands of women who today take Migid. It brings complete ease in five to seven minutes. Or prevents pain even starting, if taken in time. Every druggist has the trim little aluminum case of Migid to take to your doctor, and you can buy it at any drugstore.

Harding Plays Best Game Of Season To Win Over Steele

Victory Comes as Surprise to Fans

Red and Black Defense Holds Dayton Team to One Point in First Half of Contest; To Close Season Next Friday

BY TOM BUCHANAN
THE old one point jinx that has followed Harding High School players in the three contests this season, allowing them to win one and lose two, pulled the groundhog net Saturday night and 900 rooters yelled themselves hoarse while the Red and Black topped Dayton Steele, 28 to 16.

It was a great night for the locals and climaxed a highly successful week end for the team on the home court. The night before it annexed a 15 to 14 victory over a league rival, Shreve.

Harding probably played its best game of the season, showing much improved form over the game with Shreve. The offensive was fast, the passing was good, and plays, that many times this season have failed to materialize, were working brilliantly.

An alright defensive in the first half held the visitors to one long tally from a free throw. In the second frame the Steele eagles began finding the hoop with a greater degree of success and outscored the Red and Black by one point. Fifteen of the visitors' points were scored in the last half.

Coch Compton sent in an entire new team before the third quarter was over.

With only one game, Delaware at the Shovel court next Friday night, separating the Red and Black from the annual Delaware tournament until in March, Harding followers are beginning to wonder if the team is going to repeat last year's performance. With a very discouraging record in the league last season the team went to the tournament with little hope of success but surprised fans by coming within one point of winning the tournament. The lone point gave Columbus East a win over Harding in the finals.

If the Red and Black can keep up the pace it set Saturday night it should at least equal last year's performance. The brand of ball that was played Saturday night would have put Harding through the N. C. G. league season with a clear slate.

McAninch led the scoring with seven points. Evans got six, Partridge five, Garrett four, and Lewis three. Friedlob, a rangy right guard for Steele, was high for his team with five points.

Ohio State Drops Game to Wisconsin, 21 to 18; Big Ten Race Tied Chieng, Feb. 20.—It was left to Ohio to reopen the Big Ten basketball race and give late starters another run for their money.

This interesting event occurred at Bloomington Saturday night when the Hoosiers rose to mighty heights to hand the pace-setting Purdue quintet their first defeat of the season. The score was 40 to 37.

It was the second cage duel of the current season between these rival Indiana schools. The Boilermakers managed to nose out in front on their own floor, but they couldn't make the grade in the enemy's camp.

This defeat drops Purdue into a tie with Wisconsin for first place. Each team has won five games and lost one.

Northwestern kept within striking distance of the lead by beating Minnesota Saturday night. The score was 41 to 38. In the only other conference game played Saturday, Wisconsin defeated Ohio State, 21 to 18, at Madison.

Indiana and Northwestern are now tied, with six games won and two lost for second place. Michigan is third with four victories and three defeats.

Two championship games are scheduled for tonight. The bell ringer of this pair should be the Michigan-Purdue tilt at Lafayette. The other game brings together Wisconsin and Iowa at Iowa City.

New York Fans Want Heavy Sluggers; McLarnin and Terris Have It

New York, Feb. 20.—Tex Rickard's clients are expressing a decided preference for those bold, bad young men from the same route. Evans netted the first bucket. The quarter ended with the score at 7 to 1. Harding doubled its score in the next frame while Steele failed to collect a point. Harding still maintained scoring honors in the third frame by netting eight while Steele took five. In the final period however the Dayton boys scored 10 points to

BUTLER ACES WIN OVER ANTIOCH FIVE

Local Team Battles Way to Victory After Trailing in First Half

Butler Aces Saturday night rallied in the last half to defeat Bill Timmins' Antioch Selects at Yellow Springs. The score was 40 to 43.

Timmins' team is composed of Antioch College and fraternity court stars. Timmins pitched recreational ball in Marion last year.

At the half the Antioch team was leading 23 to 18 with the Aces rapidly gaining strength. The last half was a nip and tuck affair with the local team forging ahead just before the final whistle blew.

Residence Sold

The Moon residence on 11th Street was sold by the Home Building Savings & Loan Co. for $1,825 and the same company also purchased a residence on Schenck at a bid of $1,500. Another Schenck dwelling went to the West Side Banking Co. on the bid of $900 and a store room on Hickory Street was bid by Myers Friends, the mortgagor, at $1,467.

A farm of 100 acres in Scott Township, sold by the sheriff in the partition suit of Delphes J. Hill against Elsie Hill and others, was bought by George A. Wright for $15,400. The farm, a part of the estate of Frank Hill, had been appraised at $12,800.

The sheriff also sold a city residence located at 212 Blaine, in the foreclosure suit of Nona M. Beldner against James B. Beldner and others. This property, appraised at $3,500, went to Nona M. Beldner on her bid of $3,000.

SHOT FRIGHTENS AWAY PROWLERS IN HEN HOUSE

Nevada, Feb. 20—Chicken thieves entered the hen house of Mr. and Mrs. Minor Swartz, south of town, one night recently, but were unable to make a get-away. Mr. Swartz, hearing a slight commotion in that direction, took a shotgun and stationed himself outside to watch. He fired, as they started from the hen house. The prowlers dropped the chickens they were carrying and ran.

"BIG MONEY" BILLS GIVEN RIGHT OF WAYCongressional Leaders Pave Path for Final Tax Reduction Decision

Washington, Feb. 18—Giving all "big money" bills the right-of-way after routine business is disposed of, congressional leaders today paved the way for a final decision on tax reduction.

More than a billion dollars is involved in the "big money" bills, which include flood control, naval expansion, Muscle Shoals, farm relief and property return.

The Senate moved toward a vote today on the alien property bill to return Germany's possessions seized during the war involving an immediate treasury obligation of $50,000,000 to pay for German ships, radio stations and patents.

The Norris Resolution for government operation of Muscle Shoals and completion of the hydro-electric and nuclear plants, also involving millions, is scheduled to follow.

The House will take up the flood control bill, proposing an expenditure of $173,000,000, immediately after disposition of the budget appropriation bill.

A naval expansion bill, involving the $740,000,000, is slated for action in the House Naval Affairs Committee this week, and an early decision on the floor, with farm relief following.

WINS DIVORCE

Interlocutory Decree Awarded Mrs. Doris Mercer Krege

New York, Feb. 18—Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valenti today signed the interlocutory decree of divorce awarded Mrs. Doris Mercer Krege against her husband, Sebastian S. Krege, millionaire chain store owner.

The decree becomes final after 90 days. Krege did not defend himself at the trial before a jury in the court of Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney on Feb. 6. He was found guilty on six charges on testimony that he maintained an apartment in E. 48th-st where he was known as "Mr. Jones" and Gladys Adelle Fish was known as "Mrs. Jones." He was also accused of meeting a 17-year-old girl at this apartment.

GOES TO GRAVE

Mystery in Connection with Girl's Identity Unsolved

Cleveland, Feb. 20—"Mary Lou O'Brien," together with the mystery surrounding her identity, was to be buried here today.

Since her death from scarlet fever nine days ago efforts have been made to establish the girl's real name, and detectives for a time worked on the possibility that "Mary Lou" might have been Frances St. John Smith, missing college student of Northampton, Mass. Several angles were investigated along this line, but without success. Efforts to locate relatives in Roxbury, Mass., where the girl said she came from proved futile. Similar attempts in Buffalo also failed.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effect.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists in America.—Adv.

Opposition to Boulder Dam Plans Voiced by C. B. King

Evidence that industrial leaders are taking an increasing interest in legislative matters is seen in a news report from Washington today, which states that manufacturers are voicing opposition to the Boulder Dam bill in the belief that it contains provisions for government ownership and control sponsored by the radical element in congress.

Among the protesters, according to the report, is Charles B. King, vice-president and general manager of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., who stated his views in a letter sent to United States Senator Fred of Ohio.

In answering the Marion manufacturer's letter, Senator Fess takes an opposite stand and states that he will vote for the measure.

Cites Objection

In his letter to the senator, Mr. King wrote:

"Our chief objection to this bill is that it opens the door to a program of government ownership. It seems to us that there is a radical element in congress which is eager to plunge into private business and that this element will make every effort to put this particular scheme across. We are opposed to putting over a government ownership project as a rider to a bill that is put forward on the grounds of humanitarianism and fair play."

Mr. King is president of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association. He stated today, however, that he wrote for the sole purpose of expressing his personal views and not as spokesman for the state organization.

Gets Similar Letter

A similar letter was received by Senator Fess from Sidney Frohman, Sandusky manufacturer.

In his answer to Mr. King, Senator Fess stated:

"I have taken a somewhat accurate

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolum, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolum is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

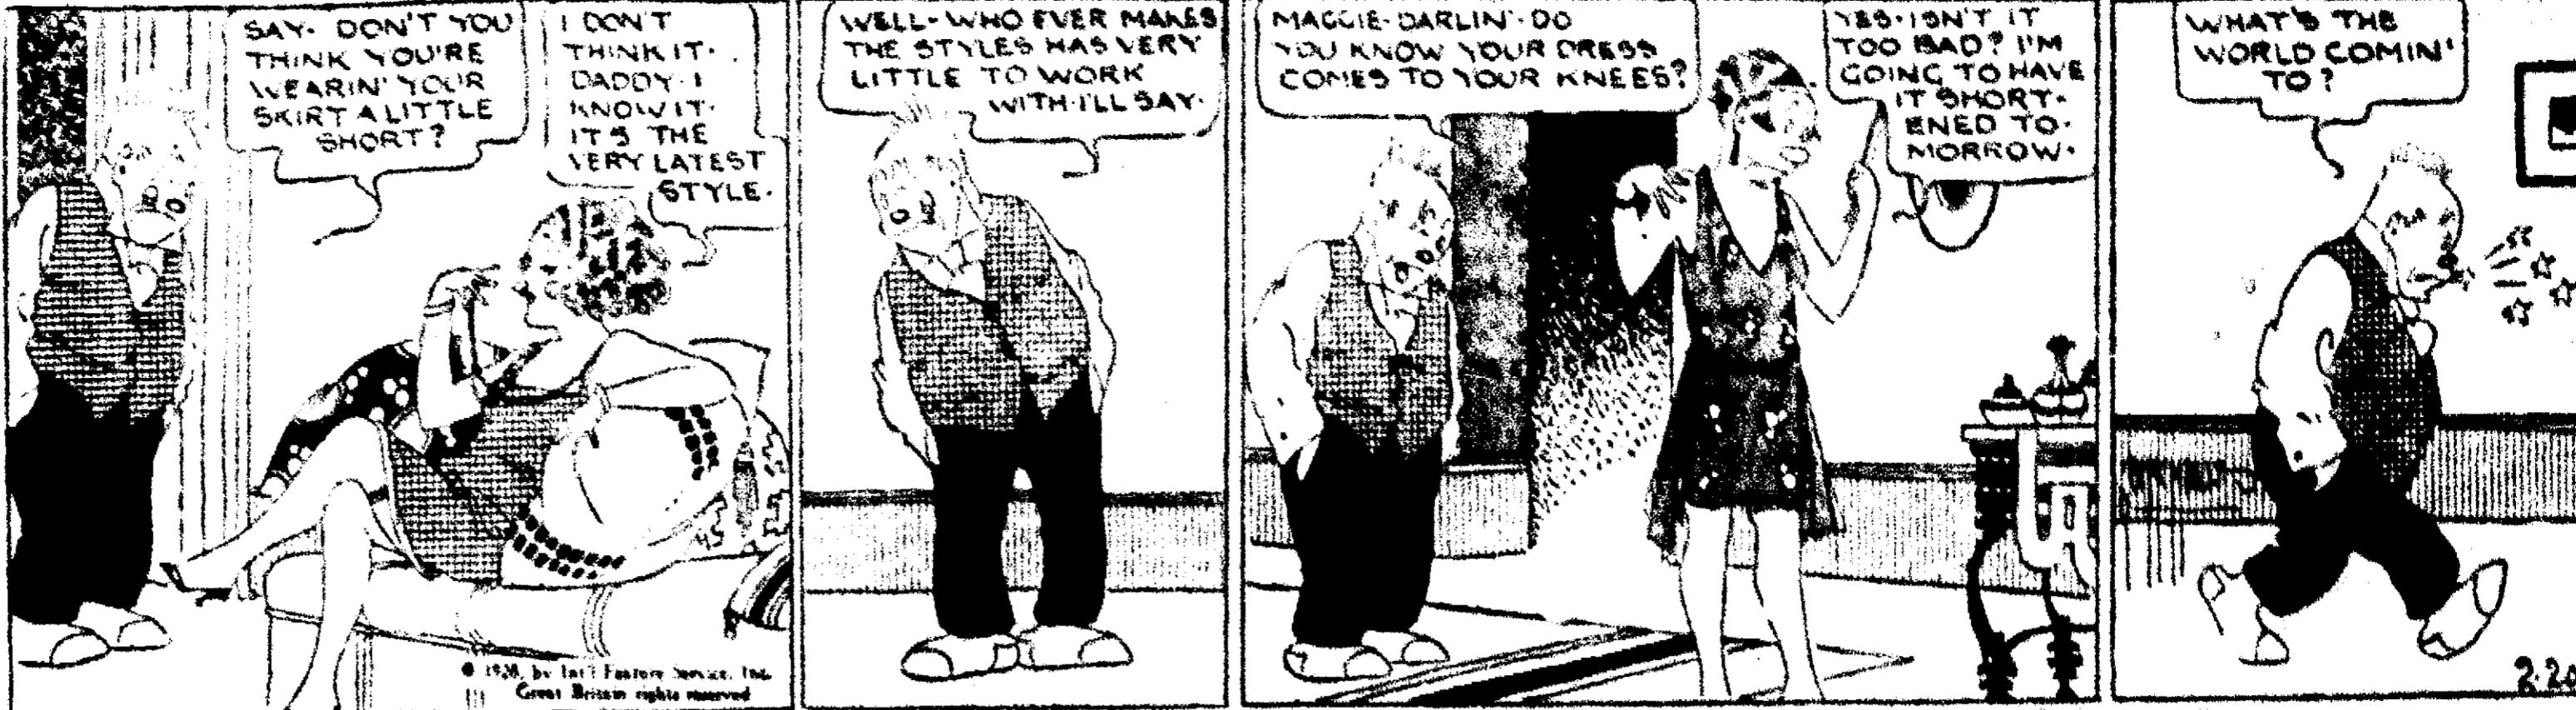

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creosolum contains in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creosolum is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.
